

How to Make Men Chase You and Not to Chase After Men

Do you ever find it annoying to be chasing after men when it would be better to make men chase you? Do you feel as though you are trying so hard to connect and make yourself available, only to have him forget to answer your texts? Wouldn't it be great if he would be the one to call you and then desperately wait for your status to change from 'busy' to 'available'? Learn how with these simple tricks that will make men chase you!

Call it evolution or call it supply and demand, the truth is that men want to chase you. They value women who are mysteriously unavailable, who would require sincere effort to go out with. The funny thing is that there is nothing that the 'mysterious' are born with that the 'available' women aren't. It is only a matter of how they act.

The 'available' woman calls her crush/interest more often than he calls her. She either asks him out on dates directly, or sends indirect hints that she would like to go out. When he does ask, no matter what she has on her schedule, she accepts, even if it would annoy her friends to reschedule.

This behavior has two adverse side effects. First, it hurts the woman's life by separating her from her friends or the activities she normally likes to do (disempowering her). Second, it hurts her chances to woo said crush because her actions suggest to him that he could do better. The end result? A downward spiral of incapacitating despair, which only lessons when the crush cuts of contact.

Sound familiar? If you find yourself caught in the above cycle, know that you don't need to be! All you need to do is retain the rights to your own life as you develop a crush. Resist the temptation to call him and watch how, perhaps a day or two after you almost bit off your toe-nails in angst, he calls and asks to see you again!

Also, resist the temptation to cancel all plans just to meet his scheduling needs. Don't worry, he'll want that date even more if he has to cancel his plans or wait an extra week to have it!

Just remember that you want to make men chase you, not the other way around. Keep your life together so that you don't need him to make you happy, and he will try to make you so happy you will forget about your life!

Imagine what if you could make any man adore you, chase you, love you, and commit to you? Click and learn that 99% of women have never heard. You have got to see this!

This article is contributed by Tina Jones from the Unforgettable Woman Publishing Team. She works together with founder Alexandra Fox and writes dating/relationship articles for women. You can find more about Unforgettable Woman Publishing by visiting their website.

Learn My most Recommended method to make men chase you

Article Source: https://EzineArticles.com/expert/Tina\_L.\_Jones/227933

Article Source: <http://EzineArticles.com/3677680>